BRAVES WIN, 5 TO 4, IN 12TH, MAKING IT THREE STRAIGHT

After a conference with Umpire Dineen, agreed that another inning should be played.

The Athletics got two men on in the twelfth, but failed to score. And then the Braves came to bat with "Hank" Gowdy to start it off again. With the count three and two on him, and with the crowd shrieking for a hit, Gowdy hammered a ball into the left field bleachers for a two-bagger. Mann was substituted as a runner for him. Gilbert batted for James, and was walked intentionally by Bush. This brought up Moran. Moran attempted to sacrifice on the third, but failed. The ball rolled toward third, in Baker's territory, but Bush ran over and made a grab for the ball. Mann was dashing for third, and Bush, hoping to catch him, threw the ball toward Baker. Bush, however, was off his balance as he made the throw, and it went wild, rolling far out into left field, while Mann, rounding third, merely jogged home with the winning run.

When Mann crossed the plate with the winning run, he was hardly distinguishable from the press stands because of the darkness that had settled over the field. But the crowd found Mann in the twilight, they found Moran, and they found the other Braves. The crowd jumped onto the field almost as soon as Bush's throw shot past Baker, and it grabbed every Boston player in sight, trotted him around on its shoulders, and went through some wild antics—antics that were indescribably wild. The "Royal Rooters" band broke onto the field, formed a rapid procession, and with at least 15,000 of the crowd following in line, marched around the field in a snake-like formation.

PULLED BY EVERS

Had the Braves lost the game in the tenth inning to-day, the loss of the game would have been chargeable to Evers. He pulled a "bone" in that tenth inning—a horrible "bone," by permitting Murphy to steal home while he held the ball after recovering it. Baker's drive was too hot for Evers, but he knocked it down. When he picked it up he was so peevish at not having fielded it cleanly that he began to slam it up and down into his glove. It was then that Murphy dashed for home in safety.

Tyler's pitching to-day was erratic. Had the Athletics been less anxious to slam the ball, had they waited Tyler back to command the box in the early innings. But, as was the case on Friday and Saturday, they were too eager to demonstrate that they were sluggers. They reached for nearly everything Tyler pitched in their direction. High or low, close or far out, made no difference to them. They reached and reached, and when they did connect, they caught the ball on the end of the bat most of the time for easy outs.

Bush pitched a good game. He had tremendous speed. But Bush should never have been permitted by Connie Mack to command the box in the tenth inning, after the Athletics had grabbed their two-run lead. The crowd was bound to get after the pitcher—and got after him hard. Had Mack inserted Evers into the box in that critical juncture, it is more than likely that the Indian, veteran of hundreds of diamond battles and a matchless pitcher when the excitement runs high, would have been able to hold the Braves in check.

But Connie didn't. The "wisest man in baseball" figured that a kid twirler could stand up under the terrific strain of having 25,000 spectators yelling at him, and Connie argued wrong. Because he didn't figure right, because he fooled in his judgment, the Braves to-night will be the next baseball champions of the world, unless a miracle happens.

And the day of miracles seems past.

ATHLETICS SCORE IN

The first inning was a close one. Time before Umpire Eckerle called "ball." Tyler was cheered as he walked to the pitching mound. Eddie Murphy, first up for the Athletics, took the ball and pitched a slow, full line for two strikes, to the delight of the Athletics.

Oldring sacrificed, Tyler to Schmidt, advancing Murphy to third. Murphy scored when Collins drove a long fly to Connolly's bench in left field. Collins dropped the ball, but Collins was credited with a sacrifice fly. Collins was held on first as Baker struck out.

Collins added off the base until he had a slow pitch, and kept right on to second. McInnis walked, and a moment later Collins was caught off second taking a long lead, Tyler making a quick throw to Evers, ending the inning.

Bush, who starred for the Athletics in the last world's series, when he won a game against the New York Giants at the Polo Grounds, had trouble in disposing of Moran.

He threw ten balls to the Braves' lead-off man; three balls, two strikes, four fouls and then the pitch Moran hit up into the air to Collins. Evers brought the Athletics' runners to their feet by dashing a single into left field. Connolly lifted a high fly that Baker caught within inches of the Athletics' bench.

Second, but he was left there, as Whitted fell a victim to strikes.

THE SECOND INNING

IS QUICKLY OVER

The second inning of the American League game was quickly over. Walsh, who was playing in center field, chopped a grounder at Tyler, who threw him out.

First, Barry raised a foul which Schmidt caught. Then, Evers stole second, but he was left there, as Whitted fell a victim to strikes.

THE THIRD INNING

The world's champion pitcher, Bush, in order in the third inning, Bush pitched to Schmidt, and Murphy was struck out on Bush's slow ball. Deal struck out on Bush's slow ball. Deal struck out on Bush's slow ball.

great cheering. McInnis hit into the left field bleachers for two bases. Connolly made a daring try for the ball.

He leaped into the air, lost his balance and fell backward into the bleachers. He was out of sight for several seconds, but bobbed up unhurt. Walsh, like McInnis, waited until he was three and two, and then slashed a single to left, bringing McInnis home.

As McInnis was about to round third, Deal got in his way, and both Harry Davis, who was on the coaching lines for the Athletics, and McInnis complained to Umpire Klein against Deal's alleged interference, but as McInnis had scored there was nothing for the umpire to do.

Barry grounded out, Deal to Schmidt, leaving Walsh on first.

With the Athletics having the advantage, the Boston rooters called for runs, and the Braves responded by putting one across in their half of the fourth.

Whitted drove a hot grounder to second, Collins walked, and the tossed the runner out in the nick of time. Schmidt delighted the home fans by pushing a fine single into center field, and the big first baseman rushed to second.

The Boston shortstop hit a sharp ball that went down the right field line. It struck close to the chalk mark and shot against the pavilion fence, then, and Maranville also made the circuit, while Collins, Murphy and Walsh chased the ball. All this time Umpire Hildebrand was making frantic signals that the ball had struck foul.

He pointed to a spot about an inch outside the line, while the crowd cheered, not realizing that the ball had been declared foul. The Boston players after the scene, the Athletics returned to the bench, and the Braves responded by putting one across in their half of the fourth.

Quaker Fans Despondent.

PHILADELPHIA, October 12.—Such enthusiasm as the Athletics' supporters previously had not had occasion to manifest during the present championship series, gave way to-day to a profound silence when the final flash showed the Boston Braves the victors for the third successive time.

When the Athletics dashed across the plate in the tenth inning, giving the Mackmen a two-run lead, a mighty shout went up from the thousands of fans who were watching the progress of the game, as displayed on electric score boards in many parts of the city.

Efforts of the police to preserve order were futile.

Even when Gowdy slammed the ball for a home run in Boston's half of the ninth, the crowds did not become disheartened, but when the Braves again tied the score, confidence in the Mackmen seemed to waver.

When the end came, expressions that "it seems to be nearly all over" could be heard from every side.

Three to one was being offered here to-night that Boston would win the series, with few takers. There were several wagers made, however, on tomorrow's game, when money and 10 to 8 in favor of Boston.

STRUNK LOST TO ATHLETICS; HAS ABSCESS ON HIS HAND

BOSTON, October 12.—Strunk, center fielder for the Philadelphia club, will be out of the game for the rest of the series. It was learned to-night when the Philadelphia players returned from Fenway Park they found Strunk with one hand bandaged because of an abscess which had been forming for several days. His loss will be felt particularly by the Athletics because up to-day he was the only one of the

JACK LEON INJURED IN FAST WRESTLING BOUT

After Twenty Minutes of Hard Work, Kentuckian Dives Over Roller's Back, Dislocating His Shoulder.

X-RAY PHOTOGRAPH IS TAKEN

Plate Shows No Fracture—Drs. Graham, Price and Roller Attend Grappler—Seattle Physician Makes Address, and Is Well Received.

Jack Stone Leon, the "Kentucky Hercules," had his right shoulder dislocated in his match with Dr. R. F. Roller at the Academy of Music last night after twenty minutes of fast wrestling. Leon was on the offensive and made a lunge for Roller, and when the Seattle grappler ducked, the Kentuckian went over the doctor's back, landing on his shoulder. Leon arose from the mat and appeared in great pain. After a preliminary examination by Roller and several other physicians who were in the audience, it was decided to send the injured wrestler to the Johnston-Willis Hospital, where he went under an X-ray examination.

After the plates had been developed it was seen that there was no fracture. Either was administered, after which the dislocation was reduced by a curvilinear covering over felt padding. The hour while it lasted was fast and full of action. Leon had a decided advantage over Roller in strength, and time, and it will be several days before the effects of the anesthetic wear off.

The fall was a hard one, and had there been a regulation mat instead of a canvas covering over felt padding, it is likely that the Kentuckian would not have been so severely injured. The hour while it lasted was fast and full of action. Leon had a decided advantage over Roller in strength, and time, and it will be several days before the effects of the anesthetic wear off.

Before the bout Dr. Roller addressed the audience, and in the course of his remarks spoke of his recent scuffle with Lewis, in which he was in a measure blamed for the foul. He told how he came back to Richmond, Va., with the intention of running to ground the rumors, and how baseless he found them. He also promised those in the audience that he would continue his investigation, and as soon as he found the party or parties responsible for Costello's action he would make their names public.

Leon was injured and it was seen that he would be unable to continue the bout. Dr. Roller promised that he would return to this city at a later date and give the Kentuckian a chance when he, Leon, was in condition to go on the mat.

PETER STEVENS WINS BIG STAKE

Six Events Featured the Day's Program, After Two Days of Rain. All Races Were Won in Straight Heats—Prelma Wins Sweepstakes.

LEXINGTON, KY., October 12.—After two days of postponement on account of rain, racing was resumed to-day. A program of six events was raced off. The feature was the $2,000 Blue Grass stake for 2:10 pacers, in which the Pennsylvania stallion, Peter Stevens, who has lost only one race this season, won in straight heats, Napoleon Direct being the only serious contender. The winner was $50 to $23 choice over the field in the auctions.

The big surprise of the day was the defeat of the Michigan colt, General Lexington, by Henry Todd, in the $2,000 Margie Handicap. The 2-year-old broke the world's record for two-year-old geldings, when he won the first heat in 2:11 3/4.
